The Company insures on equitable terms, and at a fixed premium, every description of property. The Company is solely and exclusively responsible for losses OCCASIONED BY FIRE which may be suffered by insured parties.

The Insurance may be effected for periods ranging from one month to ten years. The total premium is payable in advance, in cases where the Insurance is effected for a term of one year or less; and annually where the term exceeds one year. In terms of from 5 to 10 years, payment in advance of 5 years premium, entitles the Insured to the reimbursement of one year's premium: or in other words the Company will only charge the premium corresponding to four years.

Payment in advance of ten year's premium entitles the Insured to the reimbursement of two year's premium; with a further abatement of 10 p: cent: on the premium corresponding to the term of eight years: that is he will only be charged with the amount of eight year's premiums—less 10 p. cent.

The Company furnishes guarantees of the highest character, from the fact of there being no other Fire Insurance Company, at a fixed premium, having its head residence in the Argentine Republic; and also from the circumstance of its large capital.

The Company's funds are deposited in the Provincial Bank.

Further particulars will be furnished on application at the Company's Offices. 93 xp n15

† Signifies when the Trains cross each other.

The Trains will stop at Palermo and Rivadavia in case there be passengers for those stations. Passengers wishing to get out at them should advise the guard of the train—without this precaution the trains will not stop.

The Guards of the Trains are not allowed to receive money from Passengers, either for being without a Ticket, going farther than they paid for, or travelling in a higher class than specified on Ticket. In all such cases Passengers should notify the Guard, who shall inform the Station-Master, and thus they avoid all unpleasant discussions.

ITALY.

Florence, Dec. 7.6, p.m

In the sitting of the Senate to-day Signor Torrearsa made an interpellation on the Roman question. He considered it advisable that, under the present grave circumstances, the Senate should make a declaration. He did not wish to offer opposition to the Government, but he wished to know the attitude it intended to assume in this question. He put forward the claim to Rome, and said that, under all circumstances, the Government must maintain that claim and the Senate would uphold it.

General Menabrea replied that the Government had already expressed its views on the Roman question. By persuasion and time Italy would be able to obtain the desired end; he had already stated the difficulties the Government had to contend against; but he had, at the same time, confidence in its ability to overcome them. General Menabrea concluded as follows:—

"While maintaining our right and respecting religious interests our programme may be briefly stated as based upon the necessity for a division of powers, one of which does not harmonize with the other. Our policy, despite every obstacle, is to overcome the tendencies of exaggerated passions, while repelling all idea of weakness or of bad faith. In this path I count upon the support of the Senate."

Signor Torrearsa then proposed the following order of the day.

"The Senate, considering the declaration of the Ministry, and that the Government will manfully maintain the rights and the dignity of the nation and hasten its legitimate completion, passes to the order of the day."

Signor Leopardi opposed the motion of Signor Torrearsa, on the ground that the Senate had already given a vote proclaiming Rome the capital of Italy.

General Menabrea stated that he accepted the order ot the day proposed by Signor Torrearsa in its broadest interpretation. As to the vote mentioned by Signor Leopardi, the Minister recalled his recent speech wherein he quoted the words of Count Cavour, and continued.—

"I consider the order of the day proposed by Signor Torrearsa to comprise a sort of confirmation of that vote, since it confirms that it behoves the national dignity to maintain the solemn vote of Parliament; but, as I have already stated, Italy must look towards Rome in concert with France. If such be the signification of the order of the day, I have no hesitation in accepting it."

Signor Conforti believed that it was vain to speak of an accordance with France when France declared that the gates of Rome must be eternally closed to Italy.

General Menabrea replied,—

"I wish to establish that to obtain a settlement of the Roman question all rashness must be avoided, and that even the thought of violence or force must be dismissed. When our right is affirmed in the presence of Europe, when we have shown all the respect due to religious interests,when Europe is convinced that not only are we not hostile to the Papacy, but that we wish to guard its independence and uphold its majestic principle, then a certain divergence of views, which now appears deeply seated because it is formed upon the recent painful recollections, will gradually diminish, and at length, I hope, entirely disappear. Such is the clear sense in which I accept the order of the day of Signor Torrearsa.

This order of the day was finally adopted almost unanimously.

In the Chambers of Deputies to-day various members, including Signor Nicotera, Desanclis, Ferreras, Laporta, and others, expressed the wish to make immediate interpellations to know what attitude the Government intended to assume to maintain the rights and the dignity of the nation after the statements that had been made in the Corps Legislatif by the French Government, and especially by M. Rouher, respecting Italy.

General Menabrea replied that he had already telegraphed and written to the Italian representative at Paris for further explanations on the subject. Until he had received an answer the Government could not make any reply, and he, therefore, requested the members to withhold their interpellations until Monday next, and then unite them with other interpellations announced for that day on the foreign policy of the Government. General Menabrea hoped that he should then be able to give a reply to their questions.

The members accordingly withhed their interpellations.

The nine bureaux of the Chamber of Deputies have been constituted. Six of the Presidents belong to the moderate party of the Right. The majority of the vice-presidents and secretaries also belong to the Right.

PRUSSIA.

Berlin, Dec. 7.

A general meeting of the Electoral Union of the Party of Progress was held here yesterday. About 2,000 persons were present, and Herr Loewe took the chair.

The meeting adopted four resolutions,—of which the first demands a reform of the North German Constitution; the second the granting of aid to the poorer classes by a system of association and economical union; the third, State help to those classes by means of a reduction of the indirect taxes, a lessening of the period of military service, freedom to carry on all kinds of trade without licence, the removal of the restrictions upon out licence, the removal of the restrictions upon working men's coalitions, the establishment of independent popular schools, and an increase of schoolmasters' salaries. The fourth resolution demands the assurance of peace by the realization of the people's right to exercise a constitutional influence over the affairs of the country.

It is stated that the Federal Chancellery is preparing important alterations of the Zollverein tariff.

In to-day's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies the affair of the Danish Deputies Herren Krieger and Ahlmann, who refuse to take the oath to the Prussian Constitution excepting under protest, came on for discussion.

The proposal of the committee was almost unanimously adopted, whereby the Chamber refuses to allow them to take the oaths under protest, and, in case of their persisting in their present attitude, excludes them from their seats and calls upon the Government to institute fresh elections in North Schleswig.

The President will invite Herren Ahlmann and Krieger at the next sitting to take the regular oaths to the Constitution.

THE CRETAN QUESTION.

Dresden, Dec. 7.

The semi-official Dresden Journal publishes intelligence from Vienna, according to which reports have been received there announcing that Ali Pasha is to be replaced by Fuad Pasha as Governor of Crete. It is supposed at Vienna that this personal change prepares the way for the acceptance of the international Conference proposed by the Powers for the regulation of the affairs of Crete.

The same intelligence asserts that the Porte has forbidden Hussein Pasha to take the offensive against the insurgents. The insurgents, on the other hand, will not now lay down their arms, and they refuse to enter into negotiations with the Porte. The Porte is considering the possibility that the conference on the Roman question, at the conclusion of its deliberations on that subject, may take the Eastern question into consideration.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 7.

Intelligence published here announces that hostilities again broke out in Crete on the 22d of November.

Turkish reinforcements had been sent thither armed with breechloaders.

In consequence of representations made to the Russian Consuls Russian vessels had resumed taking away fugitive families from the island.

It is also stated that the Viceroy of Egypt refuses to pay the tribute due to the Porte, requiring that the latter should take into account the costs incurred by Egypt in sending troops to Crete.

VENEZUELA.

Hamburg, Dec. 6.

The Venezuela Consulate in this city announces that a decree was issued upon the 6th November at Caraccas imposing an extraordinary increase of import dues to the extent of 20 per cent.

The increased duty takes effect upon the 15th December at La Guayara and Puerto Cabello upon all goods imported from the Antilles and North America, and upon the 31st December at the remaining Venezuela ports. Ships from Europe will not be subject to the duty until the 15th and 31st January next respectively.

The increase is to continue in force for a year, being subsequently compensated by a diminution in the duties for two years upon the articles affected by the change.

GREAT FIRE IN CALLE DEFENSA.

LOSS OF $2,000,000 WORTH OF PROPERTY.

On Tuesday night, about eleven o'clock, an explosion was heard in Calle Defensa, which appeared to proceed from the premises of Messrs. Zimbrano & Rossi, Almaceneros por Mayor, and startled the slumbering inhabitants of that neighbourhood. Immediately afterwards a fire declared itself, and at twelve o'clock the bells of the adjoining churches gave the alarm, which soon brought an immense crowd on the spot. As usual, no fire engines made their appearance until the flames had completely got the mastery of the enormous quantities of combustible matter collected in the store, and when they did at last, there naturally was no water. Fully an hour thus elapsed before the engines could be got in proper working order, and, in the meantime,the pipes of aguardiente and caña gave ample fuel to the devouring flames, which, accompanied by successive explosions, rose in a majestic column to the skies, and threw a lurid light over the whole town.

An eye-witness, from the roof of an azotea who saw the fire from the commencement,says he never saw such mis-management in the water-supply. The fire was allowed to go on, without an effort to check it, and to the danger of the surrounding houses, until it attained an ascendancy that was positively fearful to behold: people on the house-tops were paralized with terror, while in the streets below the shouts and din rendered everything, in the way of useful action, completely out of the question.

Mr. Southern, whose store was from the first menaced by the flames, arrived shortly after the fire had declared itself, and found that an excited populace had invaded his premises, and were throwing all his goods into the streets. Resistance was of no avail, and he was obliged to be a passive spectator of the liberty that was thus unceremoniously taken with his property. The most remarkable thing, however, is that his best saddles, and all the new bits of latest improvement, were removed to a place of so much security that up to the present he has not been able to discover their whereabouts, and only the old and worthless articles have been left behind.

About half-past twelve the Chief of Police appeared with a body of vigilantes, and, assisted by Professor Murray, Mr. Southern, and others present, they succeeded at last to get the engines into proper working order by forming double rows of men, who passed on one side the buckets full of water, and on the other the empty ones, as one of the engines was in the patio, and the water carts could not throw the water into it.

Our worthy Governor D. Adolfo Alsina was on the spot and used his best efforts in assisting to put down the devouring elements. Up to the hour we write the fire is still smouldering, and there is some apprehension for the safety of Lanus' depot, in front of our office, where a large amount of kerosene is collected. The total amount of damage up to the present is estimated at 2,000,000, of which the greatest portion falls on Messrs. Sirombra and Rossi, who are not insured. Mr. Southern is insured in the Estrella Company and the owner of the house is also insured.

THE BURNING OF HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

It was not until Saturday morning, when the calamitous fire of the preceding night had spent itself, that the full effects of the disaster could be realised, or any inquiries could be instituted as to its origin. Of the theatre itself, one of the finest in the world, nothing remains but the bare, roofless walls, and immense masses of charred materials in indescribable confusion covering the whole space on which the building stood. All the costly properties, all the wardrobes of the establishment have perished, as have also the instruments of the orchestra, the grand pianos, and a musical library of incalculable value, which had taken years to collect. Madame Titiens alone has lost jewellery worth from £1,000 to £1,200. in addition to all her magnificent stage dresses. The grand organ, which cost nearly £800, and all the stage scenery and decorations, painted for the most part by Telbin, Grieve, and Calcott, have been destroyed, and the whole fabric, with all its surroundings, is in ruins. By an odd circumstance, the only thing which has survived the general wreck is the dress in which the ghost in "Don Giovanni" was wont to be played. The actual and prospective loss to Mr. Mapleson, the lessee, is estimated at £12,000, and the disaster, as it affects him, is greatly aggravated by the fact of his not having been insured to the amount of a single shilling. He was about to effect an insurance, but it had not been completed. The large duty chargeable upon theatrical properties is understood to have previously deterred him.

In the course of Saturday morning her Majesty, through the Lord Chamberlain, sent a message to him expressive of her sympathy and regret, and a telegram from Sandringham, in similar terms, accompanied by an expression of hope that no lives had been lost on the occasion, was received from his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales.

Account by an Eye-Witness.

A national calamity happened last night. That splendid temple of the Muses—Her Majesty's Theatre—situate, as most metropolitan readers are aware, in the Haymarket, presents now nothing more than a blazing shell, for little remains intact except the outer walls and the colonnade on the eastern side of the theatre. It has for years been the custom to keep experienced firemen night and day on duty in the theatre, and they had at every half hour to go over the establishment to see that there was no danger to be apprehended from a fire taking place. In order that these necessary precautions should be fully carried out, there were placed in various parts of the house "tell-tale" clocks, which indicated whether the different compartments had been visited or not. Last night two firemen were, as usual, on duty, and they assert that at half past ten o'clock they went their rounds and found all correct. At five minutes before eleven o'clock a person connected with the theatre called out to the firemen, "There is something the matter, I think, on the stage" The firemen came out, and, upon looking, saw a glimmering light near the back of that part of the building partially obscured by a flat. Upon getting to the place they found the floor of the stage burning with great fury, apparently from the bottom. Under this part of the building are immense receptacles for the stowage of old scenery, properties, &c., which were, of necessity, of a highly inflammable character, and the flames seizing them caused the fire to spread with the rapidity, literally speaking, of lightning.

Upon the roof of the building was an immense tank of water capable of discharging thirty tons weight of water per minute, and there were lengths of leather hose attached thereto, so that every part of the theatre could be reached in case of a fire taking place; in fact, the appliances were so perfect that proprietors imagined that, with proper care on the part of the firemen and the water at hand, the establishment never could present the picture it does at this moment. The firemen at once turned on the water, and every hose, both in boxes, pit, galleries, and even Beck and Company's patent hydrants were charged, and water in abundance was poured upon that part of the theatre in flames, but the result was fruitless, for the fire shot forth in immense sheets, and whilst one of the firemen was on the stage the flames shot into her Majesty's State box, then swept into the others on the grand tier, and actually swept across the vast expanse of the building to the other side. This was confined to the grand tier of subscription boxes and the stage. The pit at this time had not become ignited, and the firemen imagined that they would yet be able to get the conflagra- to those parts. Unfortunately, they were mistaken in their calculations, for suddenly, the Queen's box fell, in a thorough state of ignition, firing first the pit stalls, and then communicating with the seats behind.

Here a scene that can hardly be described with accuracy took place, the firemen being surrounded by flames on either side, and the burning timbers falling upon them compelled them at last to make a retreat; and then the news was communicated to the Metropolitan Fire Brigade. With all possible expedition Captain Shaw, the chief officer of the Metropolitan Brigade arrived with about a dozen engines, including seven or eight steamers. There were also several volunteer engines on the spot, and the London Salvage Corps, under the direction of Mr. Superintendent Swanton. Fortunately, at this particular part of the thoroughfare run the mains of the New River, the Grand Junction, and the Chelsea Companies' waterworks, and the whole three yielded abundant supplies of the antagonistic element.

The firemen, taking advantage of that, had the whole of their engines set to work, and some hundred tons weight of water were momentarily scattered upon the flames. But with what effect? Why, the fire, as if fed with turpentine, or something easily ignitable, rushed out of the different windows and through the roof, and also rose so high into the air as to threaten the Athenæum and other clubhouses on the opposite side of Pallmall. Myriads of sparks fell upon those noble buildings, but fortunately they escaped. Not so with the houses on the western colonnade of the theatre, for they are for the most part destroyed, and the backs of the shops on the south side of the building were at the time this report was written burning furiously, and it is feared that the picture gallery of Mr. Graves, near the corner of Waterloo-place, has been partially, if not wholly, consumed.

THE LATE DR. LESLIE.

Gentlemen,—The worship of integrity, virtue, and knowledge, has also its altar among the tombs. The purest of offerings are laid upon it, whilst mournful memories sit mute and pensive around it. Let friendship, too, come clad in mourning before that altar, evoking a name cherished by you all, the name of John Leslie, the deserving Dr. Leslie, whose mortal remains we now deposited in the grave.

It was not the hand of time that cut short a life but yesterday so full of vigor. Dr. Leslie died in harness, and at the post of honor. He was of that phalanx of heroes who devote themselves to the alleviation of human suffering, and are sworn to sacrifice their lives in the cause. When the hour of peril came the skilful man fulfilled his compromise. There, gentlemen, he now lies inanimate. Honor and peace to his ashes! In more than one cottage, in more than one wretched hovel, the orphan, the widow, the soldier wounded in his country's service, the helplessness of age, will wait in vain the friendly visit which once brought hope, and health, and sustenance. John Leslie, a worthy son of the Green Isle, was a friend of the poor, an honorable title unanimously ascribed to him by the press of this capital, when announcing his death. He was possessed of a soul which leant towards the unfortunate as the willow bends over the sepulchre, giving it freshness and shade. He had much knowledge, but the best of all he knew was how to love his neighbour.

How many sincere friends there must be to deplore his death! What a loss to this good city! What a loss to his fellow-workers in the learned profession to which he dedicated his life with the most ardent devotion!

"If tears could bring again to life that man," said a lady friend of his, with the tenderest of elequence, as she looked upon his corpse, "the city would swim in tears." So every street, every scene of his charitable labors, would bear witness to the public grief for his now eternal separation from us.

Horrified myself at his death, I am forced to be reserved in my expressions of personal gratitude, which, in common with so many others, I owe him for his professional care, always so disinterested to me and my family, during a long series of years. I abstain from dilating, as in duty to his memory I should do, on his frank and upright character, on his virtues as a friend and citizen, as a professional man, and as the father of a family, qualities enhanced by a noble presence, and by the affability of his manners.

Constituting myself, at this solemn moment, the interpreter of the grief experienced by a vast number of my fellow-countrymen, who knew and loved him, I can only now commend his spirit to the Creator, a spirit which has left on the earth a luminous trace, and in our hearts a lasting impression.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The Board of Health has published an account of its expenditure. The statement is signed by the President of the Committee, Mr. Hector Varela, and by the treasurer, Mr. Billinghurst. The public can thus appreciate in detail by that document the labours of the committee. If to the special sanitary services it has rendered the committee add that of accustoming the public to publicity in the administration of affairs, its appearance will form an era in this country.

It is grateful to the feelings of the friends of the late Dr. Leslie and to us all as Englishmen to see the letters and notices in his regard in the columns of our contemporaries. We have translated the really eloquent speech of Senor Don Carlos Guido, which he delivered at the grave of Dr. Leslie. The oration will be found in another part of to-day's paper.

A telegram from Chascomus received yesterday gives the melancholy news of the death of Mr. Richard Newton at his estancia at Samborombon. This lamented gentleman was one of the oldest residents and among the principal estancieros in the country.

By the Arno intelligence has been received of the death in England of Mr. George Lumb, who was the second surviving son of Mr. Edward Lumb, of this city.

President Mitré was to leave the seat of war yesterday or to-day. He intends to touch on his way to the capital at Corrientes, Paraná, Santa Fé, Rosario, and San Nicolas, and is expected to arrive here on Sunday or Monday next.

The steamer La Plata, from Liverpool, arrived at Montevideo yesterday at 1 p.m. She brings dates to the morning of the 16th December. She sailed from England seven days after the Royal mail steamer left Southampton, and her letters and news are delivered here nearly as soon as the mail's. We observe that Mr. Goschen has protested in Parliament against the Government management of the mail contract service. Are the River Plate merchants too languid to support him?

"Cashiers, look sharp." Such is the moral of a notice we find in the journals of this city, by which a clerk of the Exchange Office beseeches whomsoever may have received on last Saturday, 11th inst., 1,000 patacones, or $25,000 m/c., to be kind enough to return same to advertiser, who signs himself "Cross," though why he adopts such a sign we do not know.

The steamer Belgique brought from Antwerp 170 immigrants. The new arrivals are at present in Montevideo, but may be expected up in a few days.

The revolutionists in Rosario, not content with robbing residents, have commenced public depredations by tearing up the rails on the Central Argentine Railway, to cut off communication with the interior. What does the National Government say to this?

In accordance with the decree of the Provincial Government, Mr. Peña had convoked a grand general extraordinary meeting of the Municipal Board for Saturday last. The absence of some of the members prevented its taking place, and the worthy president was obliged to adjourn the meeting until Tuesday. On that day a quorum could not be got, owing to the absence of Messrs. Lanuz and Acuña, and was again postponed to this day.

The Provincial Government has granted to the Chascomus Municipality the sum of $50,000 for the relief of sufferers by the cholera within the limits of its jurisdiction. We are also happy to state that the Masonic Committee has besides given for the same object $2,000, and that it will contribute further, as circumstances require.

Colonel D. Geronimo Espejo has been appointed Gefe de la Oficina de Pagos, in the room of the late Colonel Rodriguez.

Dn. Mariano Cabal, candidate for the Governorship of Santa Fé, if not for the Presidency of the Republic, has written an explanatory letter to Mr. Hector Varela, in which he complains that Governor Oroño, who at first supported him, has for some unexplained cause turned against him, and in favor of a rival, Sr Freire. Our readers can refer to the letter published in the Tribuna. We cannot enter 'con amore' into questions which represent no political principles. Whatever question may be pending in Santa Fé we are in hopes General Julian Martinez will shortly settle it. We observe that Mr. Hector Varela, in communicating the letter of Sr. Cabal to the Tribuna, announces his intention of accepting the post of Deputy for the department of Colonia, Banda Oriental, to which he has been elected, and of abandoning personal participation in Argentine politics.

The proprietor of the casino alongside the Bolsa hearing that there is a proposition to open a bar-room on the very Bolsa, offers to sell his concern to the Bolsa people, or drive a hole through the wall and thus connect his fashionable premises with the hall. We believe he offers to sell out dead cheap.

The news from the war per Mattos' letter is scanty; we wondered what had become of Mattos, as for some time no letters have arrived from him. But he explains the matter beautifully himself. He says—"I have been twenty-two months writing letters for the Nacion, never received one farthing in payment, and the other day the agent of the Nacion Argentina summoned me up to pay the subscription!" This is really too bad; but it bears us out in what we all along stated—the 'Standard' is the only paper that has a paid correspondent at the war. Mattos cannot, of course, write as well as Sinbad; but his letters for twenty-two months run over a very long space; he must have sent the Nacion at least 250 letters. We certainly think Mattos has just right to complain. Mattos says that cholera in the army is terrible, and that, owing to the Paraguayans having new roads, &c., and no end visible to the struggle, there is the most intense depression at headquarters. No man sees the way out of the Paraguayan difficulty. The enemy is just as lively as ever: popped three shells into Mitre's tent the very day he heard of the Vice-President's death—as much as to say "Take that before you go to Buenos Ayres." Lopez evidently thinks that we can not hold out much longer, that we are all approaching a grand finale down here, it is really melancholy to think that there is no probability or even possibility of peace; the Paraguayans have a large fortified camp now on the Tebicuari, and several batteries mounted. The bombardment the other day was a terrible business: the allies at one point discovered that they could not reply, as the guns did not reach; orders were at once sent to Cerrito for new guns, which we suppose they have got ere this.

General Conesa has at last received his orders to depart; he goes to take command of the Provincial troops on the Arroyo Medio. Many seem to think that before long we shall have a small fight up there, as Rodriguez's men are impatient to come up with the Buenos Ayreans. An attack on San Nicolas would just throw all the fat into the fire, and we doubt if the town would hold out an hour if Rodriguez has at all a respectable force at his command. We do not think we have ever been in a town which, with a little care, could be so well defended as this San Nicolas—long streets, with empty azotea houses, sheds and galpones on all sides; 2,000 good men, with five pieces of artillery, would hold the place against the combined power of the Confederation. It is now four years since we visited San Nicolas; the town was then improving, the Club Hotel the great rendezvous, the Plaza gay, and a band playing each evening to enliven the townspeople. The port arrangements were, however, very backward: a small hut, more like a sheheen-house than the Port Captain's, was then in use. Dr. Segundo Garcia was then in power, but now he is nobody. As we have some very intelligent subscribers in the neighborhood, should the town be attacked our readers may rest assured we shall have the fullest and best details.

The letter we published yesterday of Mr. Santa Maria to the President of the Board of Health concerning the proposals of Messrs. Gotto and Neate to pave and drain the city has excited attention. It was not generally known that so large and useful a project had already been laid before the Government. We, however, a month ago alluded to it, and we observed, that it was favorably received by the Ministers, but that the Deputies suggested some foolish stipulation which for the time postponed the realization of the scheme.

By the packet we hear of the safe arrival at Southampton of Mr. Edward Thornton, late Minister at Rio.

We regret to see announced the death of Colonel the Hon. H. C. Lowther M. P. the father of the newly appointed Minister to this Republic.

Cholera seems to have reached Rio Grande. The telegrams from Montevideo would lead us to suppose that in the latter city the cases were only sporadic, but private accounts are not so flattering.

The large immigration of families from the camp districts into Buenos Ayres has not improved its sanitary condition, otherwise the pestilence is on the wane, and the cases that occur are milder in form.

Messrs. Claypole and Co. have received by the packet a supply of English newspapers, which they offer to the public at very reasonable prices.

The Rio papers announce the capture of Mr. Reboul, who lately absconded from this city. He was taken on board the Royal mail steamer Oneida.

A music band will perform this evening in the Plaza Parque from half-past seven till ten o'clock, and we doubt not that a large concourse of people will be present.

At the time of our going to press the fire in Calle Defensa was not quite extinguished.

VENTILATION.

Perhaps there is no subject, after a thorough cleansing and disinfecting, that could occupy the attention of the Board of Health and the public generally with greater advantage than that of ventilation.

In Europe various erudite theories have been propounded, some tending more to mystify than enlighten; but, as regards the ventilation of dwelling houses, and more particularly sleeping apartments, the principal adopted is one simply of ingress and egress of air by the common means of the chinks of door and window for the one, and a chimney for the other. In this country, where chimnies are somewhat rare, and in sleeping rooms unknown, some other means should be provided for the egress of the noxious atmosphere, which will naturally accumulate during the hours of sleep, unless there be an outlet for its escape.

It is hardly necessary to point out how prejudicial to health must be the inhaling of this foul atmosphere—the proposition is as self-evident—the more limited and crowded the space, of course the greater the evil. Let any one enter a bedroom in the morning, where people have been sleeping—of the too common construction here—and the wonder will be how any one could exist in such an atmosphere, and that epidemics were not more rife. Now, by an opening in the roof, or near the top of the room, this evil would be remedied. But the most effective mode of ventilation is by a tube divided down the centre, inserted in the roof, with a cap to exclude rain. This need not be more than a yard high, and may be made of tin, zinc, or any other material easily obtained, while any ordinary workman can fix it. By the simple principle of a division down the the centre, a double action is established, a continuous current of fresh air is admitted down one side, while the heated and impure air ascends the other; by a trap or slide at the bottom this action can be regulated and it can be applied with equal advantage to any room, high or low—but its benefits would be most felt in those rooms, or rather mere sheds, so commonly used by the poorer classes.

It is not only in rooms of this class that better ventilation is required, for even in most houses—owing to the principle of construction so generally adopted—there is a dark back wall which the sun never reaches, and which is frequently damp and mouldy, the air in that part of the room remaining stagnant and impure; these rooms are unfitted for sleeping in, but by applying this ventilator at the back of such rooms their character would be completely changed.

The advantages of this ventilation are—Firstly, By the simple, but peculiar principle, as previously explained, a double action is maintained, the fresh air being admitted and the noxious expelled, keeping the room in an equally free atmosphere, without strong and dangerous currents.

Secondly, That by the simplicity of its construction there is no possibility of its getting out of order, as is often the case with more complicated ones; if once properly fixed it will last an age.

Thirdly, That by its cheapness it can be brought within the reach of everyone, while it may be rendered an ornament to the best houses. To hospitals, prisons, barracks, or public buildings of any kind, its advantages are proportionably great; in fact, wherever a free circulation of air is required, this ventilation will be of the greatest service.

Fourthly, That by supplying the room with air from above, a much purer atmosphere is obtained than is the case where it is admitted from near the ground, the latter being often contaminated, even if a current be otherwise established.

Fifthly, That by combining the double advantages of ingress and egress in one system, each dependent on the other, no change of temperature affects its action; be the outer atmosphere light or heavy it will perform its functions with the same freedom.

On the whole, as regards certainty, simplicity, utility, economy, and supplying the health-giving properties of a pure atmosphere, the principles on which this ventilation is based commend it for general adoption.

THE ABYSSINIAN EXPEDITION.

The following is an extract from a letter from Colonel Merewether, just received by Sir Stafford Northcote:—"We have just returned from a most interesting and important reconnoissance up the pass from Koomoglee to within five miles by road from Senafee, a distance of forty-one miles. There were some very bad places in one part, but the road has been made now by the Sappers easy for passage of cavalry, infantry, mules, and camels; and it will, I think, prove the chief line of route, as leading at once to a good position on the highlands of Abyssinia in the direction we have to go, and to a spot within easy reach.

To-morrow we start up the Haddes to examine that, to as near as we can get to Tekonda, without actually entering it, or compromising the inhabitants by opening communications with them.

"Sir. R. Napier's excellent proclamation was sent out on the 6th inst., and I hope for the best results from it. Directly the ruler of Tigré, now Prince Cassal, a rebel against Theodorus, shows he intends acting in a friendly manner towards us, there will be no impropriety in visiting both Tekonda and Senafee; but until he does, it would not be just to the people of those places to make them run the risk of encountering his displeasure before we were in a position to protect them.

I have been very vexed not to find a suitable plateau short of the Abyssinian highlands, but I was misled by the richness of the Agametta plateau west of Massowah, and have only now learned what no one seemed to have been able to tell me before, that, as you go south of the latitude of Massowah, the lower hills become more purely volcanic; indeed, in some places entirely, so that vegetation diminishes pari passu."

"The troops that have landed are, I am happy to say, in excellent health and spirits. The 3rd Light Cavalry had been losing horses from fever, but to-day on my arrival here I was glad to find the disease disappearing. It was clearly owing to the effects of the sea voyage from India, and being cooped up on board ship.

The following is a return of the names nationalities and occupations, and length of residence of the several peisoners in Abyssinia, to release whom a military force is proceeding there; together with a return (if obtainable) of the Europeans not prisoners in the service of the Emperor Theodorus:—C. D. Cameron, arrived at Gondar June 23, 1862, British, her Majesty's consul at Massowah; L. Kerans, supposed to have accompained Consul Cameron, British secretary to Consul Cameron; R. M'Kelvey supposed to have accompained Consul Cameron, British, servant to Consul Cameron; J. Makerer, supposed to have accompained Consul Camraon, French, servant to Consul Cameron; D. Pletro, supposed to have accompained Consul Cameron, Italian, servant to Consul Cameron; H. Rassam, arrived at Emperor's camp Jan. 28, 1866, Syrian by birth, but British by employment, her Majesty's Envoy to Abyssinia; Lieutenant Prideau, arrived at Emperor's camp Jan. 28, 1865, British, attached to Mr. Rassam's mission; Dr. Blanc. arrived at Emperor's camp Jan 28, 1866, British, attached to Mr. Rassam's mission. No return of servants accompanying Mr. Rassam's mission.

Persons stated to be detained in captivity by King Theodore whose case is specially recommended to the British Commander-in-Chief, although the military force is not proceeding to effect their release:—A Bardel, French, painter and teacher of languages, formerly secretary to Consul Cameron; Rev. H. A. Stern, Hessian, missionary; Rev. H. Rosenthal, Mecklenburg, missionary; Mrs. E. Rosenthal, British-born; Rev, J. M. Flad, Prussian, missionary; Mrs Flad, A. Flad, F. Flad, P. Flad (children), F. Brandels, Baden, missionary; K. Schiller, Prussian, natural history collector; T. Essler, Hungarian, natural history collector.

Europeans (not known to be imprisoned) in the service of King Theodore:—The only information on this head is given in the following extract of a letter from Mr. Flad, dated July 10, 1866:—"The European workmen, with their wives and children, are thirty five souls."

The attendance to-day on the Bolsa was more numerous and animated than for many days past. The attitude of the wool markets in Europe, and a slight increase in the local retail trade, give hopes that this market will gradually recover its healthy tone.

Discounters are becoming more liberal, and several bills were done that but a short time since no one would look at. The rate of interest still keeps high, yet we anticipate that at the end of this month there will be a marked return of confidence in all those who confine themselves to legitimate business.

In National Bonds nothing done. Buyers for the end of March at 52, and loans, with Funds as security, freely offered at 1 per cent., with valuation at 45.

The disastrous fire at the premises of an almacenaro in town, were the cause of some stringent remarks at the unprotected state of this city. It was but a matter of chance that the whole square was not gutted, and millions of property destroyed. within 400 yards of the river.

The "Brazil and River Plate Mail," of December 7th, contains an article on River Plate Railways, and a full report of the meeting of shareholders of the Central Argentine; though lengthy it is important, and will soon be published in our columns.

NO NAME.
Many people suffer from they know not what. They are not sick—they are not well. There is no name for it. It is simply weakness—a breaking down of the vital forces. Whatever its causes (and they are innumerable) its symptoms are in the main these same. Among the most prominent are extreme lassitude, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, and great mental depression; indigestion and a stomach cough are also frequently concomitants of this distressing state of body and mind. Now, what these unfortunates really want is vigor and vital strength, and, as sure as dawn succeeds darkness, they can recuperate their systems and regain health by resorting to
BAGLEY'S HESPERIDINA.
It is as clear that a life-reviving tonic is required in such cases, as that the dying flame of an active lamp requires to be revived with a new supply of oil. Perfectly pure and innocuous (its basis being the Bitter Orange], and combining the three grand elements of a stomachic, an alterative, and a genial invigorant, BAGLEY'S HESPERIDINA is suitable to all constitutions, and is as applicable to the diseases and disabilities of the feebler sex as to those of men.

The undersigned, consignees of produce, fearing that in view of the unfavorable news brought by the last packet, in regard to the prices of produce, and in consequence of the paralysation of trade produced by the unhealthy state of the city, which has occasioned the temporary absence of the greater part of the dealers, they deem it their duty to recommend their constituents to abstain from making remittances of produce until affairs return to their normal condition, believing that in so doing they best consult the interests of their friends by saving them as far as possible from the losses likely to be incurred in the existing state of business.

ALCOHOLIC CAMPHORATED DROPS.
According to the experience of this distinguished and humane Physician, nothing yet discovered or invented surpasses Concentrated Camphorated Alcoholic Drops, in cases of Cholera or Analogous Diseases.
When the Cholera was raging in South Italy, and whole villages were swept away by its ravages, when the people fled with panic terrors to the woods and mountains, and science was of no avail, Dr. Rubini, fortunately for mankind, hit upon this great discovery, and according to the testimonies of the Governor of Naples, General Ricci, and others equally trustworthy, cured six hundred cases by the plain simple remedy here advertised.
The preventive mode of treatment is the following:—Take Morning and Evening 5 Drops, in a lump of sugar—this will prevent it precipitating and losing its special virtues. Tea, Coffee, and other excitable beverages should be avoided.

SAVINGS BANK.
BANK MAUA AND CO.
101--Cangallo--103.
BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.
The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.
The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.
These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other trivialities.
The Bank of Mauá & Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and has opened a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. every day, for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned, Sundays and holidays excepted.
The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.
The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.
The Bank of Mauá & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.
The Bank of Mauá & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighborhood.
Buenos Ayres, 2nd January, 1867.
P. P. MAUA & Co.,
M. A. DE FREITAS AMORIM.

CONDITIONS.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6 p.%) per annum, which is liquidated every six months.
Third—The depositors can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.
Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars currency, or one thousand dollars silver, the depositor, if he wishes can open an account current, according to the rules established by the Bank.
Fifth—In case the depositor loses his pass book, it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

IMPERIAL PETROLEUM, IN PATENT TIN CANS.
BRILLIANCY, ECONOMY, SAFETY!

The undersigned beg to inform the public that they have received direct from the proprietors, Messrs, LANMAN & KEMP, NEW YORK, a shipment of the above celebrated Petroleum Oil which has established for itself a reputation for excellence surpassing all others petroleums. The following are some of the qualities possessed by it—
1st. By a great improvement in refining it is freed from the gaseous Napta and will therefore stand a higher degree of heat than other petroleums before igniting, thus making it much safer, in fact, almost,
NON-EXPLOSIVE
2d. It is pure white in color, has scarcely any smell and is clean and pleasant to handle.
3d. It has a much greater density or heaviness of body than ordinary petroleum, a large part of which latter passes off in gas, the Imperial Petroleum being pure oil will therefore, with rare exception,
BURN 25 PER CENT. LONGER than other petroleums.
4th. The flame from the Imperial Petroleum is a pure white, while nearly all other petroleums give a yellow opaque flame, on this account, two lamps burning the Imperial Petroleum will give as much light as THREE lamps burning ordinary petroleum.
5th. It burns clear and steady without flickering, which is a great relief and saving to the eyesight.
6th. It does not crust the wick and therefore requires trimming but seldom.
7th. The Imperial Petroleum is shipped in patent tin cans, not liable to leak, thus avoiding the loss so often entailed upon the buyer, and being from one vein of oil it is always uniform in color and qualities.
We respectfully ask the attention of families, storekeepers, and those who have in charge the lighting of Schools, Churches, Public Halls, and Street Lamps to this very superior oil, which from its SAFETY, ECONOMY and BRILLIANCY, they will find admirably suited for their various purposes.

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF
has ever proved infallible.
